The Military Family Readiness System

BY MILITARY ONESOURCE

The Military Family Readiness System is a network of programs and services operated by the Defense Department and other federal, state, and community-based agencies and organizations. These programs and services, many available at Military and Family Support Centers, enhance family readiness, resilience and quality of life.

The Military Family Readiness System supports every service member and family member regardless of activation status or location, in person, by phone, and online.

Avoid job hunting scams

BY MILITARY CONSUMER

No legitimate company will ever charge you money to get a job, or guarantee you a job only if you pay. But job scammers will. Job search services might charge, but you'll want to do some research up-front to make sure you get your money's worth.

MFAN Military Family Support Programming Survey data release event

BY MILITARY FAMILY ADVISORY NETWORK

Since 2015, MFAN's Military Family Support Programming Survey has been the trusted source for insight into the support needs of military and veteran families. This national study is fielded every two years and provides an opportunity for military-connected families to amplify their lived experiences, shape the narrative around military life, and inspire change where it's needed most.

Join MFAN on June 26, as their researchers unpack the survey results alongside public, private, and nonprofit leaders, and most importantly, military family members.

Virtual data release:

How to remove your personal information before getting rid of your computer

BY FEDERAL TRADE COMMISSION

Your personal computer may have a lot of sensitive information on it. That could be financial information like your account numbers or tax returns. Or it could be personal information like email messages or photos. Before you get rid of your old computer, follow these steps to delete your personal information from the hard drive so it doesn't end up in the hands of an identity thief.
